Couple Exchange Wedding Vows

Miss Linda Tice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Tice, Elba, was united in marriage with Larry Randolph, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph, of Tusculum, Tenn., Saturday, August 1st at the Westside Baptist Church in Elba at seven in the evening.

The dactylology, manual alphabet of the deaf, and oral sacrament of Holy Matrimony were performed by the Reverend David Richardson, of Montgomery, against a background of nuptial music presented by Mr. Tim Brown, of Elba, cousin of the bride, Miss Dianne Asher, of Elba, cousin of the bride, sang, "The Lord's Prayer," and "Whether Thou Goest."

The church of the church was centered with a massive arrangement of white gladioli, daisies and white chrysanthemums. Seven branched candelabras, whose candles were lighted to signify the beginning of the ceremony, flanked the traditional prayer bench. Candelights were Ronny Powell and Duddie Stinson, both of Elba and cousins of the bride.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white tulle de sole overlaid with chantilly lace. The high neckline was heavily beaded in seed pearls and the lace sleeves terminated in a point. The chapel train was attached to the bodice at an empire line and the full skirt was designed with a prominent point accented with a sequin satin bow. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was also attached to a petal cap of beaded satin and she carried a cluster of carnations, the groom, Tusculum, and atop a white Bible centered

the martian question

Something to think about . . . If there are intelligent creatures on some other planet, your son and mine may one day meet them!

What sort of people would you hope these "Martians" to be?

Believers in God . . . or atheists?

Men and women with spiritual ideals . . . or materialists of the Kremlin vintage?

Warm-hearted, friendly, with a Christian sense of values . . . or ruthless, indifferent, dedicated only to self?

WOULDN'T IT BE HEARTENING to find on that planet a world of churches . . . of faith . . . of folks at worship and at work for the Truth revealed to them by God? Something to think about . . . Next Sunday! In this world! Which isn't yet all we want Mars to be!

Some private insurance companies have been sending misleading advertising to Medicare beneficiaries in this area, according to Harry N. Scott, social security district manager, in an effort to sell them health insurance to supplement their Medicare protection.

Scott said that the promotional literature distributed by these companies has been deliberately designed to give the reader the impression that the company is in some way connected with the social security administration.

or that it has access to the Federal agency's records, which are confidential by law.

Scott indicated that most private insurance companies supplementing Medicare offer valuable additional protection and additional benefits in their sales literature. "However," he said, "a few companies have engaged in practices which clearly are intended to mislead Medicare beneficiaries."

He advised persons who are confused by material they get in the mail offering additional Medicare protection to get in touch with their nearest social security office, or their State Insurance Commission for further information.

DR. JAMES I. DAWSON, right, Associate Professor, Alabama A. & M. University and Dr. Mayfield Peterson, Associate Professor, Educational Psychology, University of Connecticut shake hands before departure. Dr. Peterson served as one of the consultants in the Vocational Educational Teachers Institute at Alabama A. & M. University, Huntsville, Alabama. Dr. Peterson discussed the psychological influences affecting the disadvantaged learner.

Dr. James I. Dawson directed the three-week Institute.

Elba Native Participates

In Active Projects

Auburn University and Alabama A. & M. University sponsored at three-week Teacher Training Institute for Vocational-Educational Teachers and Supervisors who teach the disadvantaged and handicapped. The Institute was held in the George W. Carver Complex on the campus of Alabama A. & M. University, July 27-August 14, 1970.

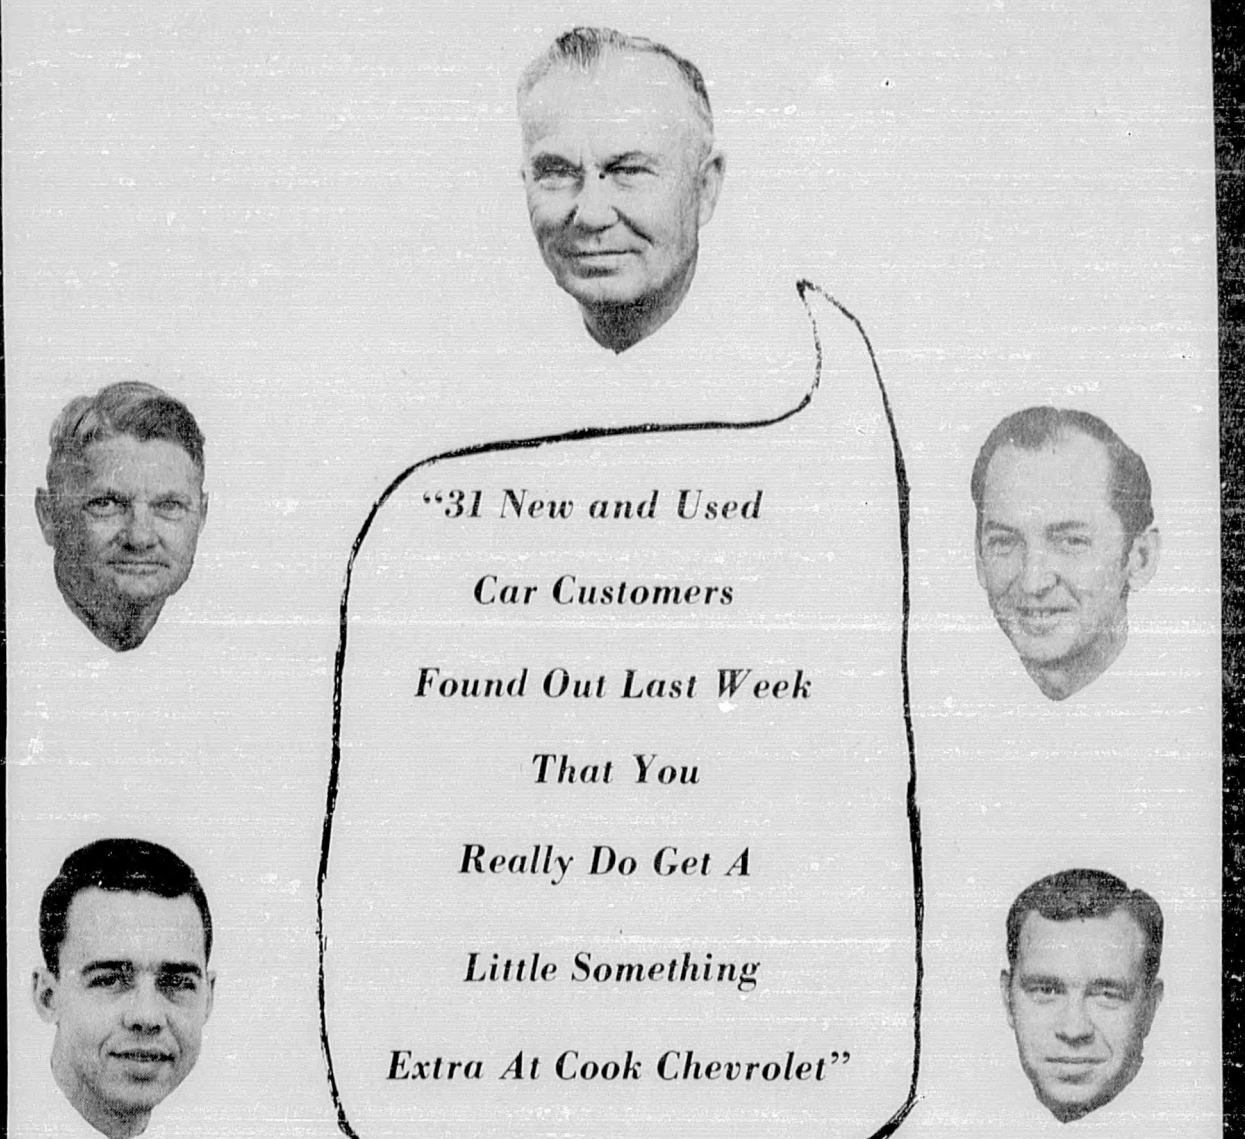

The purpose of the Institute was to amplify and enhance the role of Vocational Education personnel who work with disadvantaged and handicapped learners. Thirty Vocational Education teachers and supervisors from various school systems in Alabama participated in the Institute.

Dr. James I. Dawson, Associate Professor and Head of the Agricultural Education Department at Alabama A. & M. University, directed the project. The need to raise the socio-economic levels of the handicapped and disadvantaged was cited as a tremendous responsibility of educators by Dr. Dawson, while addressing more than 600 Vocational Agriculture Teachers, Teacher Trainers and Supervisors.

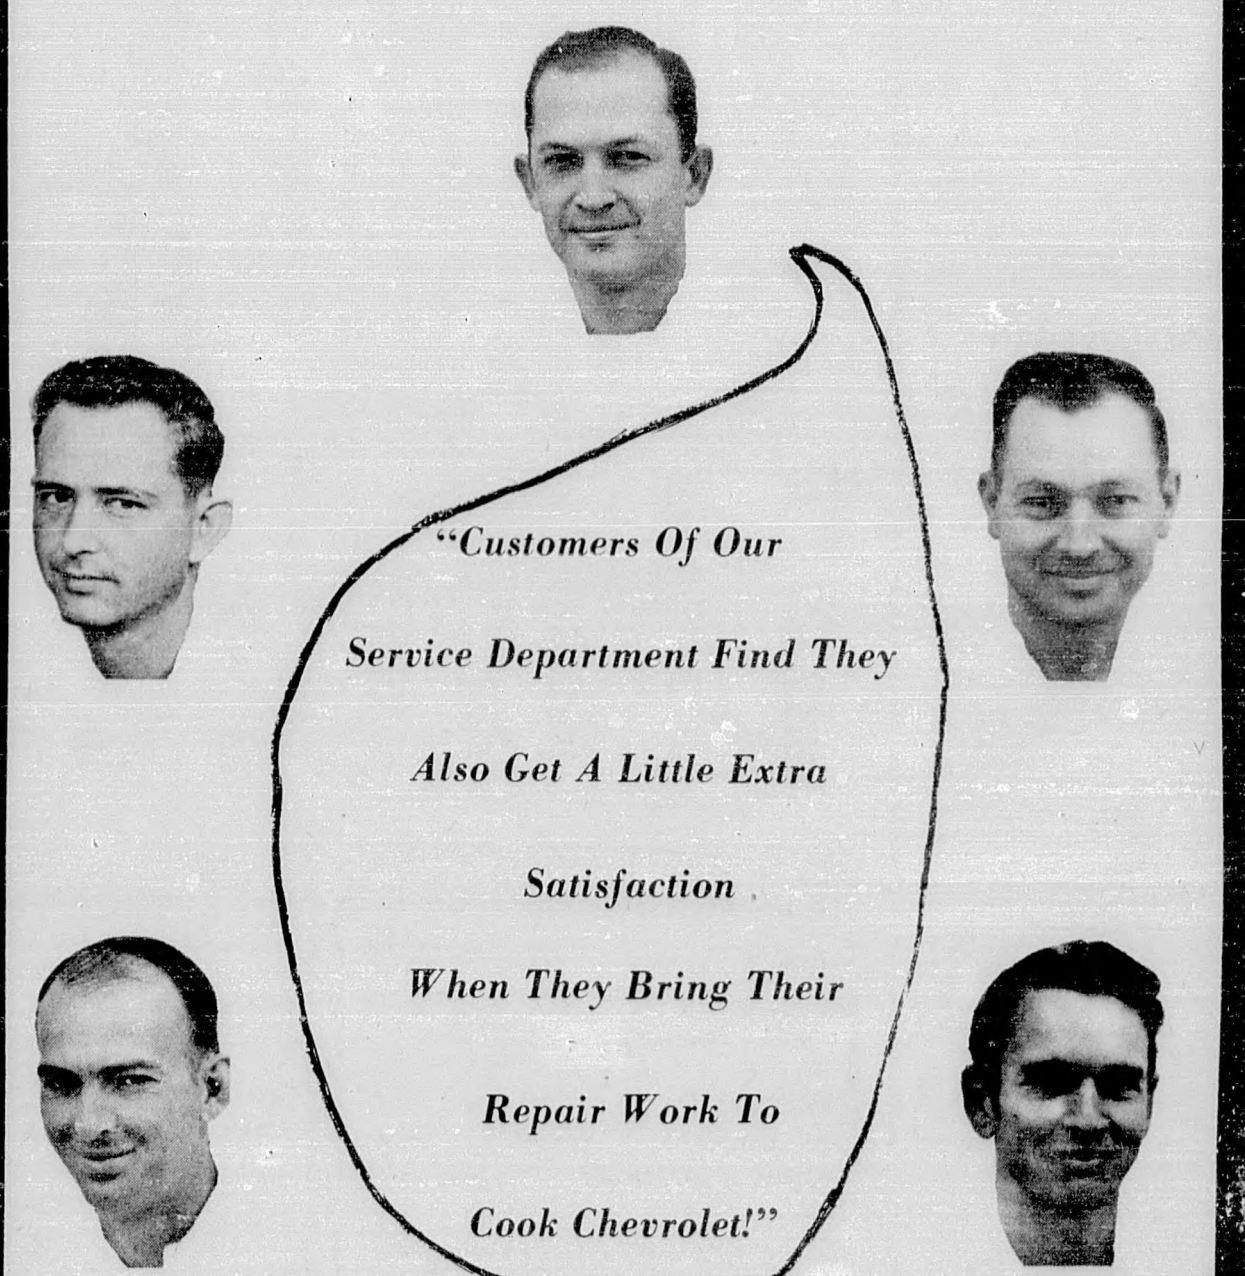

Dawson stated that in the past, the disadvantaged segment of our society has been pushed aside into a state of isolation. They have been considered to be in, but not of our culture. Because of their academic background, socio-environment level and other handicaps, these individuals have not had an opportunity to share in the progress of our society.

Dawson further stated that to neglect education and training the disadvantaged portion of our society is a waste in human resource, which is detrimental to the welfare and economy of our nation. Therefore, it is imperative that we place special emphasis on educating and training the more than 33 million disadvantaged persons in this country. The disadvantaged portion of this country is a very significant portion of our society and we can no longer continue to place emphasis on identifying and cultivating only those kinds of talent that the advantaged culture values.

Some of the recommended methods of teaching the disadvantaged as cited by Dawson are: individualized instruction; the multi-media approach; the system approach; the four-step method; the whole method and the part method. A few of the recommended techniques are positive reinforcement; have sympathetic attitude; make the learning situation problem centered.

Game time is 8:00 p.m. The Tigers have defeated the one A team, including the boys already mentioned, Ricky Nicholson, Jeff Cowen, Bill Scarbrough, Ricky Rainer, Mark May and Joe Prior.
